

Northern Kentucky Views Presents:

GALLATIN New telephone system is installed; change and expansion of electric light system engineered; grade and drain on Cincinnati-Louisville Highway, State Route No. 10, is completed; new bridge erected over Sugar Creek; Gallatin County woman gains State-wide attention in hog raising; canning factory is opened at Glencoe.

Hatchery doubles egg capacity during the year, now has total capacity of 9,000 eggs; county agent culls 65 poultry flocks; sheep programs successfully carried out by eight communities in the county; Golden Hoof Club reorganized with 21 new members; Dairy Herd Improvement Association organized in conjunction with neighboring counties; soy-bean acreage reaches peak with 3,000 acres sown red and sweet clover acreage increased; largest Jersey cattle exhibit in history noted at County Fair.

From Kentucky Progress Magazine, January, 1930

www.nkyviews.com